Prosecutors to recall Hunt to witness stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prosecutors in the Watergate cover-up trial said today they will recall Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt to the witness stand because they have discovered that a memo he wrote five months after the Watergate break-in still exists.

The revelation prompted one defense attorney to move for an immediate mistrial. Another declared, "I have now a cover-up within a cover-up."

Asst. Special Prosecutor James F. Neal said existence of the memo, dated Nov. 14, 1972, was revealed to him over the weekend by William O. Bittman, who was once Hunt's lawyer.

Bittman was named an unindicted co-conspirator in the Watergate cover-up by the same grand jury that indicted the five defendants in the cover-up trial.

Hunt had testified that he and his wife had written a memo detailing the background of the Watergate break-in, including the involvement of White House officials, at a time when only seven lower-level men had been indicted and were to stand trial for the crime.

Hunt quoted Bittman as saying he read the memo to defendant Kenneth W. Parkinson, an allegation denied by both Bittman and Parkinson.

Neal said that, until this weekend, Bittman also had denied in grand jury testimony and meetings with the prosecutors knowing that Hunt's memo ever existed.

Parkinson's lawyer, Jacob Stein, said he is now faced with challenging the credibility of Bittman and Hunt, both of whom have now admitted lying to the grand jury.

Stein asked for a separate trial for his client, describing Bittman's role as a "cover-up with a cover-up."

John J. Wilson, defense attorney for former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, asked for a mistrial. His request was rejected by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

Before the decision to recall Hunt, the prosecutors had indicated they were nearly finished with the testimony of major witnesses and would soon play recorded evidence they say is among the most damning to be put before the jury.

Watergate prosecutors say they plan to play more than 20 presidential tapes, on which are heard only the voices of Richard M. Nixon and one or more of three of the defendants.

However, some legal preliminaries must be cleared up. The first of the tapes may be heard by the end of the week.

The disclosure that Hunt's memo still exists, and the resulting legal arguments, delayed Jeb Stuart Magruder's scheduled last day of cross-examination by the defense. Magruder, deputy director of Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign, has withstood most attempts so far by defense lawyers to chip away at his testimony.

Magruder's story of the cover-up, in which he admittedly was a central figure, deeply enmeshes defendants H.R. Haldeman, John N. Mitchell, Robert C. Mariani and Kenneth W. Parkinson.

The attorneys for former White House domestic affairs chief John D. Ehrlichman asked no questions of the articulate and forceful Magruder, who frequently stole the courtroom spotlight away from defense lawyers. Magruder is serving a 10-month to four-year prison term for his own part in the cover-up.

Magruder was to be followed by his former administrative assistant at the re-election committee, Robert Reisner. He is the only witness so far who has not been indicted or served a jail term for a part in either the original Watergate burglary or the cover-up.

Reisner testified before the Senate Watergate Committee that Magruder ordered him to deliver to Mitchell summaries of wiretap information from taps made on phones at the Democratic National Committee. He also said Haldeman received copies of everything sent to Mitchell.

Of landslide victory

Democrats confident

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Democratic landslide appeared imminent today on the eve of the first election to feel the full brunt of Watergate and a staggering economy.

The final pre-election survey by The Associated Press shows Democrats have a shot at two-thirds control of both houses of Congress and a record number of governorships.

Confident Democratic leaders predicted Sunday their party would carry a virtual sweep of Tuesday's elections, while Republicans talked about holding down their losses.

The balloting for 35 governorships, 34 Senate seats and all 435 House posts will be the first since Richard M. Nixon resigned as president and was pardoned by his chosen successor, Gerald R. Ford.

The election also comes amid mounting inflation and unemployment and national debate over what to do about both. Ford has campaigned for GOP candidates saying he needs a Congress he can work with to cure the economy, while Democrats have called for the congressional strength to put through their own solutions.

Ironically, the anticipated Democratic romp comes just two years after Nixon had won for the Republicans one of history's two biggest presidential landslides. But it was reminiscent of 1966 when Republicans turned the same trick after their presidential disaster in the Barry Goldwater campaign of 1964.

Although Republicans contended that their embattled candidates were closing gaps across the country, the latest available information showed Democrats still ahead in most of the key races.

The AP survey, based on reports from bureaus in all 50 states, late polls and interviews with political strategists for the major parties and candidates gives this picture:

Senate — The Democrats likely to gain from 5 to 7 of the 14 GOP seats at stake and with a good chance to hold all 20 of their own. This could mean 63 to 65 Democrats in the new Senate, compared to the 58-42 margin they already hold.

House — The Democratic gain could be as high as 50 seats and probably no less than 30 if present trends hold. They now hold a 248-187 edge and could approach the massive 295-140 majority they achieved in Lyndon B. Johnson's 1964 landslide.

Governors — The Democrats hold the record for most governorships in the

Fiscal responsibility survey lists Eagleton

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In an apparent reply to his Republican challenger, Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton has released a survey which he says shows Eagleton is the 13th most fiscally responsible of the 100 U.S. senators.

Eagleton, who faces former congressman Thomas B. Curtis in Tuesday's election, said the survey by the National Taxpayers Union "shows the meaningfulness of such broad-brush labels as 'liberal big-spender.'"

Curtis has charged that Eagleton "has tried to shuck his liberal record ... by not leveling with the people" on his votes for federal spending, for busing and for gun control.

As the Senate campaign went into the home stretch, both candidates kept up a heavy schedule, with Eagleton planning news conferences today with Democratic candidate for state auditor, George Lehr.

in St. Louis, Columbia, Kansas City and Springfield.

Curtis, who was endorsed by Americans for Constitutional Action Saturday, planned to hold his final news conference today in St. Louis, after stops in St. Joseph, Kansas City, Joplin and Springfield.

In addition to voting for a U.S. senator Tuesday, Missouri voters also will choose a state auditor, 10 U.S. congressmen and 180 state senators and representatives. Also on the ballot will be two constitutional amendments and a campaign financing reform proposition.

Curtis, 63, who served 18 years in Congress before losing a 1968 Senate bid to Eagleton, said last week inflation is the greatest issue in this year's campaign.

"Tom Eagleton, during his six years in the Senate, voted to add appropriations of $120 billion to the federal budget," Curtis said. "I believe in balancing the federal budget."

Eagleton, 44, said in a statement released today that "a reduction in government spending, while not the total cure for inflation, can have a beneficial effect on the rate of price increases and on interest rates. This has consistently been my position, as my colleagues and I on the Senate Appropriations Committee have cut $7.4 billion to date from the original administration budget request."

Independent Clifford E. Talmage, 61, also is seeking the Senate seat.

In the state auditor's race, Democrat Lehr is challenging Republican incumbent John Ashcroft. The low-key campaign has seen Lehr acknowledge that Ashcroft has done a good job as auditor, and Ashcroft concede that Lehr would do a good job if he were elected.

Kissinger trip to determine possibilities of negotiations

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today Israel and the Arab states must "make an effort to bring their positions closer to each other."

Kissinger, who begins another Middle East peacekeeping swing Tuesday, told newsmen the purpose of the trip is "to see whether useful negotiations can be conducted and in what manner."

With Yugoslav President Tito at his side, Kissinger said the United States "will do its utmost to move matters in the Middle East to a just and lasting peace."

Kissinger conferred with Tito for 1½ hours in the Yugoslav leader's White Palace, an imposing mansion that once belonged to Prince Paul, pretender to the throne.

They made brief statements to newsmen afterwards and took no questions.

Tito, a steadfast supporter of the Arabs in their push for Israel to relinquish territory, said both he and Kissinger expressed concern "because of the stagnation that is there. Much depends on the United States which so far has had a main influence."

Kissinger said, "The United States would like to do its best to prevent a stalemate from developing. This requires that all the parties on both sides understand the special necessities of the other and make an effort to bring their position closer to each other. It is for this purpose that I am going to the Middle East."

After his Middle East peace swing, Kissinger goes to Turkey for talks on the Cyprus dispute.

The Turks are angry about the bill adopted by the U.S. Congress last month to cut off aid to them unless there is progress toward a settlement on Cyprus. Kissinger wants to ease the Turkish government's concern and insure Turkey's continued cooperation in Eastern Mediterranean affairs.

The secretary of state was flying later today to Rome for a major address Tuesday before the World Food Conference. He will hurry on to the capitals of Egypt on Tuesday night, Saudi Arabia and Jordan on Wednesday and Syria and Israel on Thursday "to explore possible next steps toward a Middle East peace," he announced Sunday.

American officials stressed that the trip, Kissinger's eighth through the Middle East since the October 1973 war, was not intended to produce any agreements. Instead he will be trying to find out what can be done to get negotiations going again.

The officials said the secretary of state is not convinced that the summit ruled out his step-by-step approach calling for Israel to hold separate troop-withdrawal negotiations with Egypt and Jordan and an indefinite delay in the resumption of the Geneva peace conference. He hopes that progress in such negotiations would induce the Syrians to negotiate in the same way.

Kissinger told newsmen "several of the parties" had asked him to return to the Middle East. He did not name them, but diplomats in Cairo said President Anwar Sadat of Egypt had sent Kissinger a report on the Rabat conference and asked him to return.

Ford urges 'confidence' vote Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, warning that a low turnout in Tuesday's election could bring minority rule, urged Americans on Monday to go to the polls and "send a message to Washington and the world."

"You will not just be voting for Democrats or Republicans," Ford said in a statement read to reporters and a bank of television cameras in the White House Rose Garden. "You will be casting your vote of confidence in the United States of America."

Ford did not specifically endorse Republican candidates in his pre-election statement. He stressed instead the need for voter turnout.

He said some surveys indicate a turnout of only 40 per cent of the voter population.

"If this is true, the Congress with which I must work here in Washington to control inflation, strengthen the economy and preserve peace in the world, could be elected by only 21 per cent of the voters," the President said. "I don't think anyone wants that kind of minority rule."

First Lady Betty Ford stood at the President's side as he read the statement.

Afterward, the President said — "We both voted. I hope they're counted," he said of their absentee ballots, adding — "It might be important."

Ford, in speaking, departed slightly from his prepared text, using the words "minority decision" rather than "minority rule" in urging voters to turn out on Tuesday.

"Every eligible voter will send a message to Washington and to the world tomorrow," Ford said.

Those who cast their ballots, "whether they vote for Republican or Democratic candidates or for others will be voting 'yes' for our American tradition of government by the people and for the people," he said.

"Everyone who can get to the polls and fails to go, who refuses to exercise the precious right of a free citizen to vote his or her honest conviction is actually voting 'no' on our system of self-government," Ford said.

He said Americans who turn out to vote "will not just be voting for Democrats or Republicans. You will be casting your vote of confidence in the United States of America."

Tax time again

Two long lines of county taxpayers formed outside the county collector's office Monday morning in the courthouse. County Collector Lorraine Jackson estimated by 11 a.m. 300 people had paid their 1974 personal and real estate taxes. She said the deadline for paying the taxes is Dec. 31 and people can mail the money in, "but some of them like the personal contact and this way they know the taxes are taken care of." Monday was the first day to pay and Mrs. Jackson expects the office will be busy for the next few days, and at the end of December.

Political leaders express confidence

On the eve of election day, both Pettis County party leaders are expressing confidence in the outcome of Tuesday's off-year general election.

Republican County Chairman Hank Monsees said he feels GOP candidates for county offices will buck an anticipated nationwide Republican slump.

"I can see us winning every race," he said. "It may be close in a few cases, but I feel very confident." Monsees also projected an increase of ticket-splitting in the county, which he feels will also help his party's candidates.

"We will have an extensive get-out-the-vote effort Tuesday," Monsees added. "We hope to get as many people as possible to the polls."

Monsees' Democratic counterpart, Henry Salveter, expressed similar confidence, commenting: "Our candidates have all been out working for votes and now we'll just have to wait and see. That's about all anyone can say at this point."

A total of eight offices in the county are being contested this year. They are the positions of presiding judge, eastern and western district judges, county collector, county treasurer, county auditor, prosecuting attorney and probate judge. The offices of county recorder of deeds, county clerk, circuit clerk and magistrate judge are uncontested.

Depending on where they live, Pettis

Countians will also select a representative from the 113th, 117th and 46th districts to represent them in the state Legislature.

In a special city election, voters will select from three contenders a successor to Ralph Hamlin who was elected municipal judge in April, but died before he could assume office.

The extended weather outlook for Tuesday calls for clearing and continued cold, with the high temperature expected to be around 50 degrees. Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Obscenity discussion expected

Continued discussion of proposed new city anti-obscenity ordinances and future possible actions to be taken against Police Chief William Miller are expected to highlight City Council activity beginning at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Municipal Building.

At its Oct. 21 meeting, the council failed to act on a proposed obscenity ordinance prepared by City Counselor Robert Fritz. Tonight, in addition to further reviewing the proposed ordinance the council will also discuss a related proposal to enforce age regulations at local theaters. The second proposal was prepared by Fritz, at the request of Mayor Jerry Jones, following the Oct. 21 council session.

It will be possible for both measures to be voted on tonight by councilmen, Fritz indicated.

The council is also expected to deliberate over the future status of Police Chief William Miller, who was reinstated Friday by a 7-1 vote of city councilmen. The decision came after a three and one-half day public hearing on whether to dismiss him. He was suspended Oct. 9 by Jones on 10 counts of alleged misconduct in office.

At tonight's meeting, the council is expected to discuss the possibility of reprimanding or demoting Miller, according to council sources.

weather

Clearing late tonight and Tuesday. Continued cold. High Tuesday around 50. Winds northwest 10-16 mph this afternoon diminishing to north west 5-10 tonight. Probabilities of rain 30 per cent this afternoon. The temperature was 42 at 7 a.m. today and 37 at noon. Low Sunday night was 40.

THINK!

15 years ago the 4th District sent a "BILL" to Congress and we've been paying that bill ever since. In 7 years our taxes paid for him to take the following trips:

- |                     |              |
|---------------------|--------------|
| 2 to France         | 2 to Canada  |
| 6 to Germany        | 1 to Korea   |
| 3 to Italy          | 2 to Greece  |
| 1 to Portugal       | 2 to Turkey  |
| 3 to Spain          | 2 to Belgium |
| 3 to United Kingdom | 1 to Mexico  |
| 1 to Denmark        | 1 to Norway  |

Little wonder Congress has fixed it so such "junketing" is now kept secret and no longer reported in the Congressional Record.

Loud belching aunt disgusts family

Dear Ann Landers: My husband's aunt lives with us. We have two children, 12 and 13 years of age. I should consider this a delicate problem but since Auntie doesn't, I'll go right ahead — the way she does. It's her loud belching. She can be heard all over the house.

At the dinner table it's really disgusting. She doesn't even say, "Pardon me." Our children have started to imitate her and now they are competing with one another to see who can belch the loudest. When I correct them they say, "Auntie does it."

Last week I decided to stop hinting. I came right out and told Auntie how my husband and I felt about her loud belching. She claims she can't help it, that it's the result of her hysterectomy. If this is true we will try to be more tolerant. Check it out, will you please? — Undone Katy.

Dear Katy: Auntie's hysterectomy has nothing to do with her belching. If she believes she has a physical problem she ought to go to a doctor and find out what it is.

Regardless, the woman should attempt to lower the decibel rating of her belching, as a matter of courtesy.

As for your children, if you can't put an end to their crude behavior now, they are out of control and I feel sorry for you. The worst is yet to come.

Dear Ann Landers: The husband who signed himself "Hungry" was right on target. But he left a lot of territory uncovered.

Those immaculate housekeepers who expend all their energy polishing and waxing floors and starching the kitchen curtains until long after midnight aren't the only ones who are losing it. Add to the list the double-domed intellectual who reads literary classics, atomic energy manuals, books on economics and international relations. She ought to be smart enough to know that that ain't where it's at at 2:00 a.m.

I don't need a sexpot, either. Just a woman who knows what time it is. Sign my letter — Hungry II.

Dear Hungry: Sometimes it helps if you buy her a nice watch. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing in the hope that you can print this before my parents split. Here's the story:

Mom is the third in a family of five children. She was always the one who had to do all the dirty work. She was also the one who was least loved. Now that Grandma is very sick, Mom is the one who visits her every day in the hospital. She is also the one who goes to Grandpa's place and cooks and cleans and does his laundry.

These daily visits to the hospital and to Grandpa's infuriate my father. Grandma is practically a vegetable. She doesn't know anybody and it can't matter to her if Mom comes or not. Daddy just can't seem to get this through her head. He says she is proving by her actions that she cares more about her parents than she cares about her husband and children.

They argue about this all the time and I'm afraid of what might happen. Any advice? — B.K.S.

Dear B.K.S.: Your dad doesn't understand that your mother is still knocking herself out to get the approval of her parents — and she will do it as long as they live.

I hope your dad will see that this has nothing to do with him or your children. It's a highly neurotic pattern of behavior and not an uncommon one. Your mom feels that she MUST do this, and no one can change her mind.

CAHOKIA, Ill. (AP)—A 27-year-old St. Louis man, Richard A. Youngerman, was killed Sunday morning during a shooting incident outside a Cahokia tavern.

Police said Youngerman was pronounced dead of a bullet wound of the heart at an East St. Louis hospital.

Youngerman and two other men became involved in a fight with three others outside the tavern, police said.

Two pistols were recovered by Cahokia police after the incident, and officers were holding those involved for questioning.

Polly's pointers

Smelly hair brush makes her wonder

DEAR POLLY — Around the first of every month many people receive a brown envelope with a Social Security check, veteran's pension, etc., and many times people, especially the elderly, come to the bank with that easily recognized envelope in hand and also a bank book. I cringe thinking how they are potential victims for assault. Why not tear up that brown envelope before leaving home and put the bank book and an unendorsed check in a white envelope? Carry this in a large purse if possible but do not be obvious about its containing a check. Some of the people who do this could never fight back enough to come out even with an assailant. — MRS. J.G.M.

DEAR POLLY — I would like to share a vitamin and energy conserving pointer. When I bake potatoes they are scrubbed, buttered and wrapped in foil. I always bake some extra ones to have on hand for potato salad, etc., that I will plan for the next day. The oven heat does double duty. Baking rather than boiling conserves vitamins as well. — MARY W.

DEAR GIRLS — We would all save on heat by planning oven dinners when baking potatoes. Cooking at the same time could be a meat loaf, vegetable casserole and a baked dessert rather than one today and another tomorrow. — POLLY.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — A natural bristle hair brush may do wonders for the hair but they certainly can be offensive to sensitive nasal passages. Mine is 100 per cent natural bristles and smells awful. I have washed it in any number of things (shampoo, dish liquids and a mild ammonia solution) but none worked. I am hesitant about using anything too strong for fear of damaging the bristles. I hope someone has a suggestion. — MRS. MD.

Stockholm policewomen fight for equality

By MARIE-LOUISE MARCUS

STOCKHOLM (AP) — "Get the women out of the patrol cars," a superintendent of a Stockholm police squad demanded this summer, and he circulated a petition among fellow policemen to ban female police from radio patrol duty.

Fifty signed, and a heated debate flared all summer long in equality-conscious Sweden.

Supt. Goesta Soederstroem's demand caused widespread publicity and brought angry reactions.

"The opinion that women are no good at exercising force says a good deal about the men who signed the list, a great deal more than they are probably aware of," wrote columnist Gudrun Hjelte.

As is so often the case in Sweden the laws and the government's official stand on controversial issues are more radical than present attitudes. This goes for the acceptance of women in the traditionally male police force.

The debate died at the policemen's union congress early September when attorney General Lennart Geijer firmly stated that "we need more women policemen and we do not wish to exclude women from certain duties such as patrolling."

It used to be that policemen in radio cars were considered the "super cops" of the force. What stirred oldtimer Soederstroem into action was the news that a young policewoman, Lisbeth Gauffin, 25, had been appointed commander of one such car crew.

"Women cannot handle situations when violence occurs; she will be a danger to her colleagues," he argued.

But Lisbeth Gauffin's boss backed her and so did her union branch in Stockholm. Lisbeth made better marks on a special emergency test than did most of her male colleagues, said the head of the Skaerholmen police, where she is employed.

So she bravely went back to

Policewoman

Lisbeth Gauffin, 25, drew controversy when she was appointed boss of a radio car unit. Her male colleagues said it was too tough a job for a woman. Nevertheless, she bravely defended her job, and continues to work.

work as if nothing had happened. After four years on the force with exactly the same training as male policemen she considered herself as fit for patrol duty as they.

"It's all nonsense," she said. "During all my years I have never been in a situation where I had to use violence. I'll go on working."

Police instructions declare that violence is the last thing a policeman should resort to.

"According to my experience it is rather an advantage to be a woman in this job. My sex has a psychologically dampening effect on people. Men are brought up not to hit women," she said.

This was confirmed by the Stockholm Police School's psychology teacher.

"Most policemen can recount incidents when they found that if they took the time just to listen it calmed people down; violence is unnecessary in the job," he said.

Sweden has had policewomen since 1949 and in the '60s they were allowed to leave their traditional white collar tasks and patrol the streets in uniform.

In 1969 the National Police Board gave in to pressure groups within the force and ordered the women back inside police stations again but this lasted only for two years.

Ulla-Britt Maansson, of Lund in southern Sweden, then wrote an angry letter to the authorities protesting against the "sex discrimination." The government reacted promptly as equality between sexes was a popular and not-so-controversial political issue.

"Now she can walk the streets again," the headlines had it and blonde Ulla-Britt was presented with boxes of chocolate and received fan mail from all over the world.

At present, there are 400 policewomen in the total Swedish force of 15,000. An increasing number of young women apply to the police school.

One of them is last year's Stockholm Lucia, a sort of midwinter beauty queen. Maigret Andersson, 21. She had numerous offers of modeling work.

"But models can't eat what they want, they have to watch their looks all the time. What a bore," said Maigret. "The police job is one better."

Treatment Effective In Stopping Sebum Hair Loss, Growing More Hair

HOUSTON, TEXAS — If you have any of the following symptoms: oily or greasy forehead, dry or oily dandruff, itching scalp or hair that pulls out easily; your hair loss may be caused by sebum. If so, you can now stop your hair loss ... and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done". But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss ... but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of your hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. If you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if your hair loss is due to sebum and you will have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair ... now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

George Lehr is the most qualified candidate ever for Missouri State Auditor. He brings 11 years of experience in government — most recently as Jackson County Executive — and 13 years as a professional Certified Public Accountant to his candidacy. George Lehr made the new Jackson County government work. As State Auditor, he will make state government work more efficiently and economically. George Lehr will get things done.

EAGLETON-LEHR

Big Inflation. Big oil. Big government. A big crisis in confidence. . . .

U.S. Senator Tom Eagleton is working to curb inflation by holding down government spending. He's fighting big oil, its unconscionable profits, and its $25 billion a year in increased prices to consumers. He's working to restrain big government — to keep it from intruding into the rights and privacy of citizens. And, most important, he's responsive to the people of Missouri. Tom Eagleton gets things done.

Coal contract talks are still deadlocked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Contract talks remained deadlocked today despite efforts by federal mediators to get the negotiations going again as time ran short for averting a nationwide coal strike.

"Nothing is planned and there is no way we can resolve our differences as long as the operators refuse to discuss the critical issues," said a spokesman for President Arnold Miller of the United Mine Workers.

Chief federal mediator W. J. Usery Jr. spent the morning trying to arrange a new meeting and an industry spokesman said it is possible the two sides could get together later in the day. However, nothing definite was planned.

Miller broke off the talks Sunday night, charging that the mine owners had refused to negotiate the key economic demands. He said only a slim chance remained of preventing a strike when the current contract expires at 12:01 a.m. EST Nov. 12.

"The onus is on the operators," the union chief said. "The next 24 to 48 hours are rather critical."

Usery stepped into the talks Sunday night after Miller led his bargaining team out of the negotiations, saying there was no point in continuing until the coal producers responded to the union's latest economic proposals.

A spokesman for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association said the mine owners had wanted to first resolve the remaining noneconomic issues.

"We made a great deal of progress and in a short time — in a day or so — we could reach an agreement," said Guy Farmer, the spokesman and chief industry negotiator.

In an apparent move to increase pressure for a settlement, the UMW's 38-member bargaining council approved Miller's recommendation to return to the coal fields rather than wait in Washington in hopes that the talks would resume and result in a tentative agreement. Time is already running short and this means at least an extra day before they can return here.

The council must first approve any agreement before it can be submitted to the union's 120,000 members in 25 states under a complicated ratification process which could take up to 10 days. However, Miller said it may be possible to shorten the time provided a settlement is reached early this week.

The union leader was more optimistic in his outlook for preventing a walkout than UMW Secretary-Treasurer Harry Patrick, who accused the coal producers of "utter contempt" in dealing with the miners' economic demands. Patrick said "there is no way to prevent a coal strike."

Federal energy experts say a long shutdown of the mines would have a more devastating effect on the economy than last winter's Arab oil embargo. Widespread layoffs could be expected in the steel, automobile, chemical and railroad industries, all heavily dependent on coal.

Miller said the union and industry was only five or six percentage points "of being together" on the economic package. "We're not very far apart," he said.

A victory by Ashcroft, 32, would help the Republican party maintain its momentum in the state and would be taken as an endorsement of Republican Gov. Christopher Bond's first two years in office.

A win by Lehr, 37, would help the Democrats in the 1976 campaigns for governor and other state offices.

All 10 incumbent U.S. representatives are opposed in Tuesday's election.

In the state's 1st District, incumbent Democratic Rep. William L. Clay, 43, is challenged by real estate broker Arthur O. Martin, 55, and in the 2nd District, Rep. James Symington, 46, a Democrat seeking his fourth term, is opposed by Republican Howard C. Ohlendorf, 59.

Three women are seeking the 3rd District seat in Congress. Incumbent Democratic Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan is seeking to retain the seat she has held since 1952. Republican Jo Ann Raich, 38, and Independent Marie S. Nowak, 54, are her challengers.

Incumbent 4th District Rep. William J. Randall, 65, a Democrat, faces Claude Patterson, 38, a school teacher and minister, and incumbent 5th District Rep. Richard Bolling, 58, is opposed by Republican John McDonough, 50, and Independent Edward Verburg, 76.

In the 6th District, Democratic Rep. Jerry Litton, 37, faces Republican Grover H. Speers, 51.

Missouri's only Republican representative, Gene Taylor, 46, is being challenged by Democrat Richard L. Franks in the 7th District.

Rep. Richard H. Ichord, 48, a Democrat, is being contested for the 8th District seat he has held since 1960 by Republican State Sen. James A. Noland Jr., 47.

Rep. William L. Hungate, 51, is being opposed in the 9th District by Republican Milton Bischof Jr., 44, and Rep. Bill D. Burlison, 41, faces Republican Truman Farrow, 52, in the 10th District.

Proposition No. 1 on Tuesday's ballot would require full disclosure before elections of campaign contributions and expenditures from all candidates for public office.

The measure, placed on the ballot as an initiative proposition in a whirlwind petition drive after the legislature failed to adopt campaign reform legislation in the last session, would take effect Jan. 1 if approved.

Also on the ballot will be two amendments to the Missouri constitution.

Amendment No. 1 would permit St. Louis, Kansas City and counties to issue general obligation bonds for industrial development. Only municipalities other than the two largest cities have that authority now.

Amendment No. 2 brings the state constitution into conformity with the U.S. Constitution by reducing the minimum voting age from 21 to 18. The U.S. Constitution was amended in 1971 and 18-year-olds have been allowed to vote since.

hands of one party — 39 in 1939. Already holding 32 of the 50 statehouses, they now appear likely to gain from 7 to as many as 10.

The party out of the White House normally gains in off-year elections — an average 4 senators and 26 House members in the last five.

"Our mission is to keep it under the average losses," Rep. Robert Michel, R-Ill., chairman of the House Republican Campaign Committee, said on ABC's "Issues and Answers" show Sunday.

"Frankly, I would like to keep it in the range of 20 to 25" House seats, Michel said, the number of GOP congressmen he concedes are in deep trouble.

Sen. Bill Brock, R-Tenn., chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee in the Senate, said losing 4 or 5 Senate seats would be normal in the off-year following a presidential landslide like Nixon's but predicted "we'll do better than that."

But that was as close as any Republican leaders — including President Ford — would come to putting numbers on their expected fate Tuesday. When asked for his prediction, Ford brushed aside the question with "not on Sunday."

On another television panel show, GOP party chairman Mary Louise Smith also ducked the "numbers game" but said she saw a "turnaround" in the Watergate backlash that has been hampering Republican campaigns.

However, Democratic chairman Robert Strauss, appearing with Mrs. Smith on "Meet the Press," predicted a gain of 4 to 6 Senate seats, 27 to 32 in the House and statehouse victories to place 85 to 90 per cent of the population under Democratic governors.

The AP survey shows at least four Republican senators in the greatest danger of defeat — in Colorado, Kentucky, Oklahoma and North Dakota.

A fifth, Robert Dole of Kansas, has overcome a deficit in the polls against Democrat William Roy and the race is now rated a toss-up.

A sixth Senate race apparently has turned around but still is too close to call with Democrat Wayne Owens ahead of the GOP's Jake Garn in Utah by a narrow margin in three recent polls. They are seeking the seat of retiring Republican Sen. Wallace F. Bennett.

Democrat Richard Stone also leads Republican Jack Eckerd for the Senate seat vacated in Florida by the retirement of Republican Edward J. Gurney.

In New York Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits is ahead in the polls but still threatened by former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark. In Vermont, Democrat Patrick Leahy appears within reach of Republican Richard Mallory.

On the House side, Republicans are bracing for losses of four or more seats in California and New York. Democrats also have a chance for multi-seat pickups in New Jersey, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Connecticut, Iowa and Virginia.

Republican chances of knocking off Democratic House members are in South Carolina, Louisiana and Utah as well as in Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania where Democrats captured traditionally GOP seats in special elections earlier this year.

The Democrats are well ahead and considered sure to capture the two biggest governorships, with Democrat Edmund G. "Jerry" Brown Jr., expected to beat Houston Flournoy in California for the job being vacated by Ronald Reagan, and Democrat Hugh L. Carey a heavy favorite over incumbent Republican New York Gov. Malcolm Wilson.

Republican-held governorships also are threatened in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Arizona, Oregon, Tennessee, Colorado and Wyoming. The hottest race is in Michigan where Democrat Sander Levin has knotted Republican Gov. William G. Milliken in a race too close for the polls to predict.

Nixon's stay indefinite

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon is off the critical list after complications from phlebitis surgery, but medical officials say there is no word on when he may leave the hospital.

Dr. John C. Lungren, Nixon's personal physician, said Sunday that his patient is now receiving "sub-intensive care," which Lungren described as a step down from critical care.

Nixon had been in critical condition for six days after experiencing shock following an operation to partially close a vein in his left groin area. The surgery was designed to keep blood clots from moving to his lungs or heart.

"It's his best morning since hospitalization began," Lungren said in a statement issued at Memorial Hospital Medical Center on Sunday.

Draffen arraigned on felony charge in shooting here

Charles G. Draffen, 41, 120 East Jefferson, was arraigned in Pettis County Magistrate Court Monday morning on charges of assault with the intent to do great bodily harm, a felony.

Draffen is alleged to have shot Claude J. Jackson, 52, 214 East Pettis, in the right side Saturday morning with a .22 caliber rifle at Draffen's home, according to Sedalia police.

Police took Draffen into custody Saturday and he was turned over to the sheriff's department at 10 a.m. Sunday. Police gave no motive for the shooting.

Draffen's bond was placed at $5,000 and his preliminary hearing is scheduled for 10 a.m. Nov. 20th.

Jackson was taken to Harry Truman Memorial Hospital in Columbia, formerly known as the Veterans Administration Hospital, where he was reported in satisfactory condition at 1 p.m. Monday.

Sedalia woman is assaulted near school

A 29-year-old Sedalia woman was assaulted about 9:15 p.m. Sunday by a black man at the Sacred Heart school. Third and Vermont, police reported Monday.

According to police reports, the woman was leaving the school building after cleaning and was grabbed by the man. She told police that the man had a carving fork and threatened her with it. Police reported that she grabbed the fork and got away from the man.

Police are looking for a black male, between 18 and 20 years old.

In other police news, three rings, valued at $750, were reported stolen from the home of Henry W. Harris, 1001 South Carr. The rings were believed taken around noon Sunday. Entry to the house was gained by prying a screen off the front door.

Randy Brooks, 645 West 11th, reported to police the theft of a tool box and tools from his truck parked on the lot of Broadway Lanes sometime Saturday night. Value for the loss was set at $150.

Rex Thomas, Kremlin, Okla., reported to police that a citizen's band radio was stolen from a vehicle owned by Miller Distributing Co., Fairview, Okla., his employer. The $220 radio was stolen while the vehicle was parked at Ramada Inn Sunday night.

FOOD & FIBER NEWS

University of Missouri Extension Centers
Henry - Johnson - Lafayette - Pettis

LLOYD LEWELLEN
Area Farm Management Agent

Most Missouri cattle feeders have good-quality roughages such as grass hay, legume hay, haylage, and corn silage which make ideal rations for starting cattle on feed. Using these roughages with medication such as Aurio S-700 or other antibiotics for the first three or four weeks eliminates the need for complex starter feeds.

Researchers at the experiment station at Fort Hays, Kansas, report they have had good fortune starting new cattle. Their cattle have been weaned from their station herd or shipped in from New Mexico. In the last five years only 7 out of 2,300 head have died in the first sixty days, and none died from shipping fever.

Our calves usually do not get sick until the third week after weaning, so we try to postpone dehorning, castration, and spraying for at least that long.

Sheep day
Reports on how to boost lamb production and cope with legal problems will highlight Sheep Day Thursday.

Registration starts at 9 a.m. in the University of Missouri-Columbia's Livestock Center.

Beef Decisions
With feeder calf and cull cow prices one half of 1973, cow-calf producers face important decisions, says Edwin Schwitzky, Area Livestock Specialist. His first concern is to keep cash production costs below gross sales per cow.

Some ideas to lower costs and increase sales per unit are: Stop expansion by selling more heifer calves. Cull the cow herd (at least 10 per cent). Grow lightweight calves to heavier weights. Save more calves.

Other ideas are to size the cow herd to fit land suitable only for pasture. Eliminate new investments.

Evaluate the feeding program. Use protein only as needed. Analyze the value of creep feeding and cut feed wastage. Look at the cost of fertilizer and machinery costs in relation to their return.

Then remember, price-wise, there are seven million more cattle on farms now than a year ago and twenty-two million more than five years ago.

Johnsongrass
Fall plow ahead of severe cold weather to expose the roots and rhizomes of Johnsongrass to cold weather. Shallow plowing is most desirable and if you have a spring tooth harrow or similar implement, use this implement after plowing to pull the roots and rhizomes to the surface. This allows the roots and rhizomes to be exposed to the maximum freezing of winter weather. Success of this method depends upon the severity of the winter and the vigor of the roots. Follow up treatments next spring and summer will depend upon the crop to be grown and the amount of kill received during the winter to the Johnsongrass.

Marketing margins
Although "middlemen" are often blamed for a rise in the price of food, data show that in the last couple of years the margins taken in food marketing were not quick to inflate. The margin for marketing a "basket" of food was $700 in 1969 and rose to $790 in 1972. Even in the hectic inflation of 1973 it advanced only slowly, due in part to price controls. In the July-September quarter the margin stood at $825. But then it took off. Preliminary figures show it at $1,033 in April-June 1974.

Last year, much of consumers' extra spending for food went to farmers. This year, a lot more is going to the marketing system.

It is not unusual for marketing margins to lag in a price rise. But their spurt in 1974 is exceptionally fast.

Musk thistle
The thistles you kill now won't be there next spring when other work is pressing. In fact, each thistle you control now could easily mean controlling 10,000 new thistle plants that could be born from the seed by the uncontrolled plant this fall. The rosette stage of musk thistle is when it is most susceptible to chemical control. Early spring and fall are times when chemical control is most effective.

Pollsters say inflation top issue among voters

NEW YORK (AP) — Voters see inflation as the No. 1 issue in the election Tuesday and will be skeptical of any candidate who hasn't discussed it in terms they can understand, private pollsters say.

"Let's not kid ourselves, in this election there is one overriding problem on people's minds, and that's the economy," Frank Goldsmith of Oliver Quayle & Co. said.

Harry O'Neill of Opinion Research Corp. in Princeton, N.J., also used the word "overriding" to describe worry about inflation, adding, "The situation is similar to the way Vietnam was the big issue several years ago."

Goldsmith, O'Neill and three other pollsters declined to discuss details of the information they have supplied to candidates, but they did describe what their studies show about voter concerns.

Dick Wirthlin of Decision Making Information in Los Angeles and Tully Plesser of Cambridge Opinion Studies in New York emphasized the advantage of discussing inflation in specific terms.

"The electorate needs something it can understand," Wirthlin said. "For example, cut government spending, soak the oil companies, hold the line against defense spending. But this all must be played against the background of what the electorate wants to hear. There seems to be much sympathy toward making sacrifices if the electorate can be assured that these sacrifices will help curb inflation."

Discussion on sex education here scheduled

The sex education curriculum is Sedalia's public schools will be the topic of a panel discussion Tuesday night, sponsored by the Sedalia PTA Council. The session will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the junior high school.

Participants will be Dr. Elmer Van Dyke, school nurse Mrs. Aleda Fritz, Mrs. Judy Berenyi, child care and family relations instructor at Smith-Cotton High School, and assistant superintendent Earl Finley, who will present an overall view of sex education programs in the schools.

The films, "Boy to Man" and "Girl to Woman," which are used in the Sedalia school system, will be shown.

Mrs. Wayne Rhoads, first vice president and program chairman of the PTA Council, said the session was set up so parents could become familiar with sex education materials being used. The program is also intended to help "open up communications" between parents and children on such subjects, she added.

Plesser said voters will respond best to a candidate who identifies a cause of inflation "and holds it up as an enemy to be attacked — you need something to clarify the issue for voters, who can't dope out the nuances of the problem."

Goldsmith said a candidate would be a "fool if he says he's going to lick the inflation problem. People are too intelligent to believe that. A candidate needs to be honest, to stress areas where he has shown some expertise that could contribute to a solution."

Bob Teeters of Market Opinion Research in Detroit said, "The only clear consensus that seems to be emerging is that a substantial number of voters think restraint in spending is needed."

Poppy sale days scheduled here

The annual poppy-selling campaign conducted by the Sedalia chapter of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be held Nov. 8 and 9 throughout Sedalia, it was announced Monday.

Proceeds from the fund-raising effort are used exclusively to aid disabled and needy veterans and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans.

Milk price increase offset by feed costs

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The farm price of milk was up last month, but so was the cost of feed for dairy cows. That meant a slight dip in the already depressed milk-feed ratio, according to Agriculture Department figures.

As of Oct. 15, the department's monthly report on farm prices showed last week, the milk-feed ratio was 1.17 pounds. That is the amount of dairy feed equivalent in value to one pound of milk sold by farmers.

The mid-October ratio was down slightly from 1.18 pounds in September and 1.10 set in August, the lowest in 27 years. A year earlier, on Oct. 15, 1973, the ratio was 1.57 pounds and on the same date in 1972 — when dairy farmers were making money — it was 1.77 pounds.

President Ford says he will not order larger dairy import quotas before the situation is thoroughly reviewed with dairy industry people. That is encouraging, milk producer representatives say, but direct action to boost government price supports is needed quickly to help relieve the financial burdens.

The USDA price report said the over-all dairy product index — meaning the average farmers received for all milk products — was up four per cent during the month ended Oct. 15 but still was two per cent below a year ago.

The milk-feed ratio figures illustrate what has happened the past year. As of Oct. 15, for example, the average cost of 100 pounds of dairy feed was $7 nationally, compared with $5.30 a year earlier.

Meantime, the average farm price of 100 pounds of milk also was down to $8.21 per hundredweight in mid-October from $8.32 a year earlier. That is a "blend" price average for all milk sold to plants.

If farmers had received a full parity price for milk last month, the Oct. 15 average would have been $10.90 per hundredweight, the USDA report showed. As it was, the midmonth level averaged only 71 per cent of the parity price.

A year earlier, when milk sold for more and feed costs were lower, the Oct. 15 farm price translated into 88 per cent of the parity price at that time. The parity price supposedly reflects a balance between prices farmers get for what they produce and their costs.

The high cost of grain — the principal component of dairy feed — shows a much higher relationship with the parity scale. For example, corn prices at the farm on Oct. 15 averaged a record $3.45 per bushel.

But the mid-October parity equivalent for corn was only $2.74 per bushel.

Thus, the Oct. 15 farm price of corn equaled 126 per cent of parity, according to USDA tables.

People in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — Aristotle Onassis has entered New York Hospital for a "routine physical checkup," the hospital says.

The hospital's administrator said Sunday that Onassis, husband of the former Jacqueline Kennedy, was listed in satisfactory condition simply because it was hospital practice to list a condition for all patients.

He said the Greek financier entered the hospital under an assumed name, "Mr. Phillips," because he did not wish "to have any unnecessary publicity."

PARIS (AP) — Boxer George Foreman, who lost his world heavyweight crown last week to Muhammad Ali, says he is ready to fight Ali again "for nothing."

"I think that in Kinshasa the best athlete was beaten," said Foreman, speaking on a television show about the title bout in Zaire.

"I am prepared to meet Ali again and for nothing," he said. "I'll have no rest until I meet him again. Then I'll retire."

Foreman and Ali each earned $5 million for the fight. Ali has said he has no immediate future plans, but he disclosed after the fight he was offered $10 million to box Foreman or ex-champion Joe Frazier.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Shah of Iran will make a "friendly visit" to the Soviet Union later this month, according to the Soviet news agency Tass. The agency said Sunday that the shah was invited by the Presidium of the U.S.S.R. and the Soviet government.

Cuba wants U.S. to make up U.N. losses

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Cuba and the Soviet Bloc want the United States to pay the United Nations more than $25 million for losses caused by inflation and devaluation of the dollar.

The General Assembly is debating a report showing that inflation will add $17.9 million to the world organization's costs this year, and currency fluctuations will add another $9.5 million. This is about one-tenth of the U.N. budget.

Cuba has introduced a resolution that says "losses experienced by organizations in the U.N. system" due to inflation and currency changes "shall be borne by the developed countries in which these organizations have their headquarters." Another Cuban resolution calls for the transfer of U.N. funds from American banks to "currencies that are not in crisis."

"Pure economic fantasy," said one U.S. official.

The first resolution applies mainly to the United States, which is the site of the main U.N. headquarters. The country with the next largest number of U.N. offices is Switzerland, which does not belong to the United Nations. Cuba and its allies argued that the capitalist countries are solely to blame for inflation and currency changes.

Cuban delegate Enrique Serrano also told the assembly's Budget Committee that the United States takes in up to $1 billion a year from spending by the United Nations and the delegations to it, the U.N. pension fund and development investments, and rising real estate values.

Soviet delegate Valentin K. Palamarchuk said it was unfair to burden all U.N. members with losses from inflation created by capitalist nations. U.S. inflation was the cause of currency fluctuations, he added.

The Federal Reserve System, central banking system of the United States, was established Dec. 23, 1913, by an act of Congress to give the country an elastic currency, to provide facilities for discounting commercial paper and to improve supervision of banking.

Know Your P's and Q's about Plate Collecting?

NORTHBROOK, Ill. — A successful art dealer in this Chicago suburb has announced a new, easy way to start collecting rare porcelain plates with high resale potential.

According to Thomas Gilmore II, president of this dealership, one exceptional plate priced at $25 in 1965 now brings $1,050, and another selling at $10 in 1969 now sells for $245.

Mr. Gilmore says, "Since many plates do not increase in value, amateurs often make serious mistakes." He offers a free report telling what to look for, what to pay, when to sell, and much more.

To get your free report with no obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code to Thomas Gilmore, Bradford Galleries, 365-S. Bradford Place, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. Because of limited quantities, please mail your request by November 16, 1974.

WORLD ALMANAC
FACTS

Camouflage is used in warfare to disguise objects so that they blend into their surroundings. Scientific camouflage was developed during World War I and the French made elaborate devices to conceal military objectives and industrial plants. During World War II, camouflage was used on land and sea but became less effective with the development of radar and aerial photography. The World Almanac notes.

Rome food conference amid sense of urgency

WASHINGTON — The United Nations World Food Conference will convene in Rome Tuesday. This reminder probably provokes a gaping yawn from readers who have seen other world conferences evaporate in the hot air of self-serving rhetoric.

Rowan

Then there is the reason you may not understand: developments at Rome may have a lot to do with how easy it is for you to fill the tank of your automobile, or fire up your furnaces and water heaters in the future.

At the United Nations recently, President Ford made this notable observation: "Many developing nations need the food surplus of a few developed nations. And many industrialized nations need the oil production of a few developing nations."

Now you can read that as a promise or a threat. You can find Mr. Ford saying, "Our food is as important to mankind as the oil of Iran, Venezuela, the Arabs combined. If they want to play politics with oil, we can play games with our food."

Or you can assume that the President was simply stating an international and moral imperative: "We all have something someone else needs, and none of us is so self-sufficient that we don't need raw materials and other resources from other nations. So let's cut out the stupid embargoes and phony restrictions and recognize our interdependence."

From a strictly selfish standpoint, we Americans must hope that the President's intention was to say the latter. We must hope the U.S. delegation to Rome is going to make a pledge to a world grain stockpile which will be generous enough to set a standard of decency the Russians, the Arabs, the Iranians, the South Africans cannot ignore when it comes to raw materials they possess in abundance.

There may be some naive in assuming that in showing generosity and compassion where her food supplies are concerned, the U.S. can shame the oil exporting countries into lowering prices so they don't push developing nations into bankruptcy — or the whole world into a depression.

It may also be naive to assume that a U.S. delegation headed by Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz is likely to set any high moral examples, considering Butz's public view that the U.S. ought not to overcommit itself at Rome. And considering Butz's view that much of the talk about a "food crisis" and impending famines is "apocalyptic nonsense."

Yet there is no debating the presence of devastating hunger in the Sahel region of Africa, in Ethiopia, in India and Bangladesh — even if one is unwilling to accept predictions that the world has entered a period in which this planet will be enveloped in a continuous famine.

Then, too, there is no escaping the fact that the world's population still grows at a perilous rate. The Environmental Fund recently issued its new 1974 world population estimates. It says we've already passed the 4 billion mark and that world population increases by 90 million people a year rather than the 75 million previously estimated.

If we double the world's population to 8 billion people in 35 years or less, we probably cannot double the world's food supply. Obviously, then, mankind faces an urgent need to find new keys to population control.

But in the immediate future there is a fertilizer shortage, and solving it is directly related to the availability of petroleum. And there is a food shortage whose solution may require modest sacrifices on the part of the American people.

That Rome conference may fizzle. It may not help avert famine anywhere. But it surely will tell us whether nations really have learned anything about interdependence, or whether the present worldwide economic mess is destined to degenerate into selfish chaos.

All is not settled
by City Council

Although the City Council chose not to dismiss Police Chief William Miller based on the testimony heard at last week's public hearing, it is evident that many problems remain in the leadership of the Sedalia police department.

Because of a legal ruling by the city counselor, the council found itself Friday with only two options—either to vote to dismiss the chief or not. Seven of the eight councilmen felt a strong enough case had not been made for dismissal.

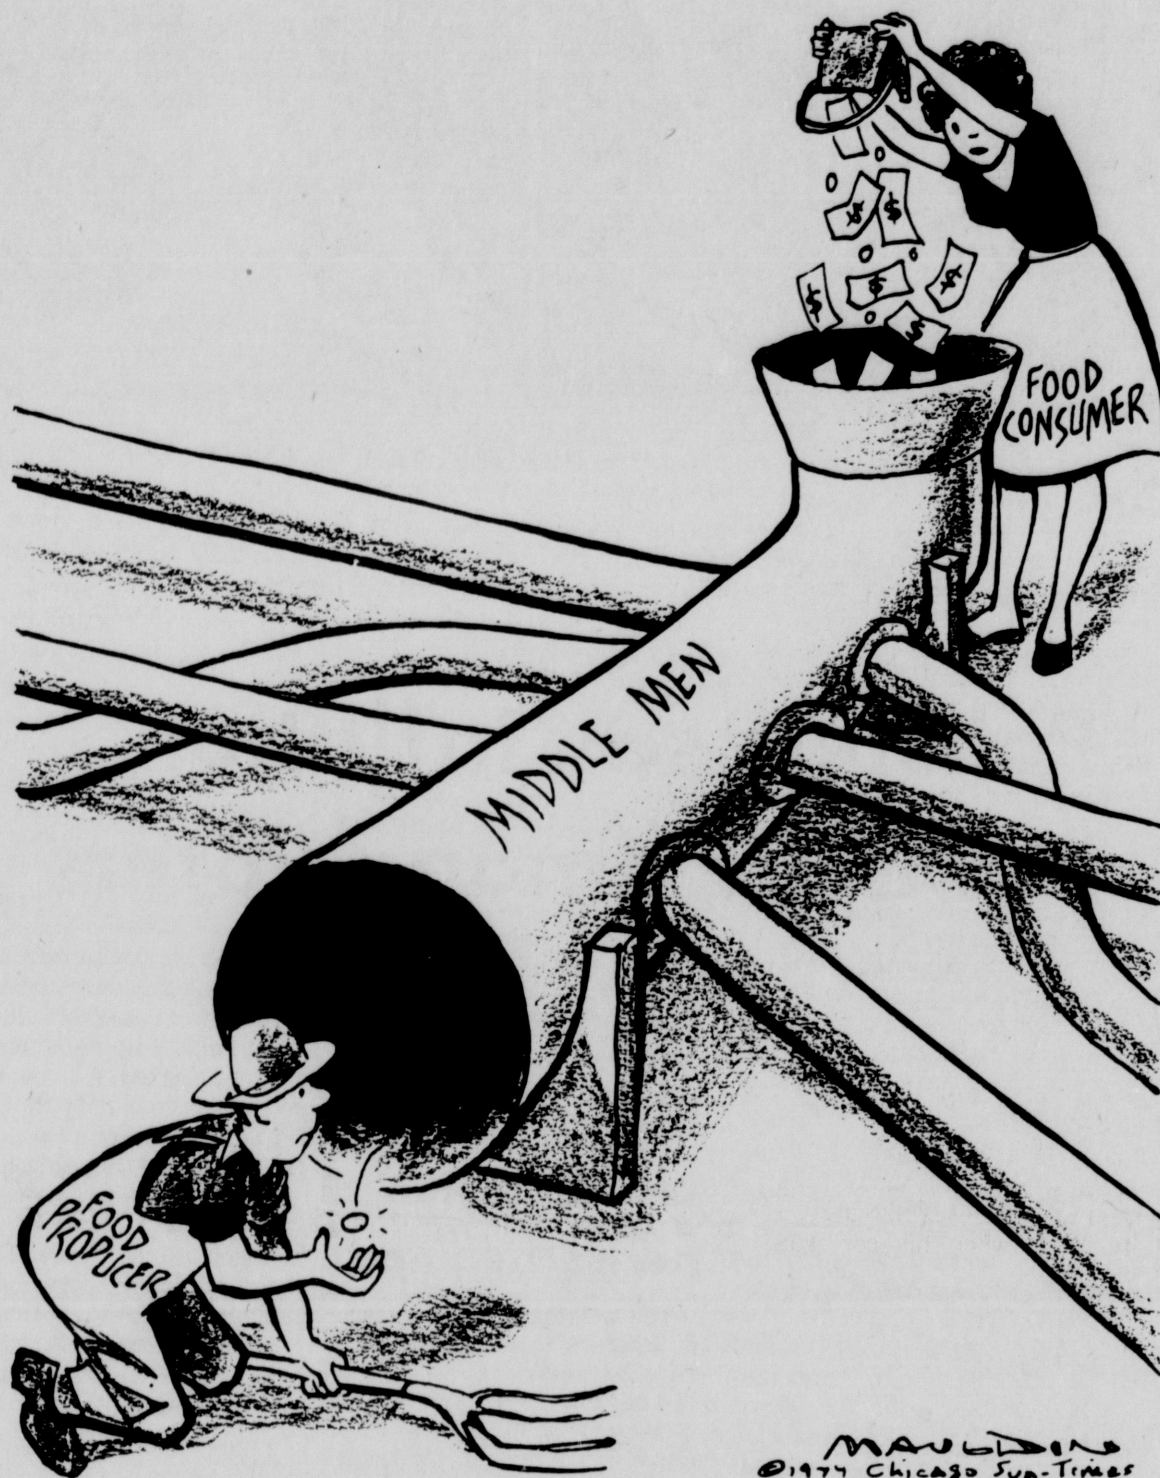

This does not close the door to other action, however. Statements from some councilmen following the hearing, and the fact that the council was evenly split in a straw vote to demote the chief, indicate that serious doubts remain about the chief's ability to continue to run the department. Certainly ample testimony was heard at the hearing to justify this feeling.

A vitally important question is, where do we go from here? Will the mayor be able to work with the chief on a basis of mutual trust and cooperation?—we doubt it. What about the chief's relations with the city attorney, who was charged with investigating the department? Can the chief function with apparently serious doubts as to the performance of his duties on the part of half the City Council?

What of the young officers who testified in support of some of the allegations against Miller? These officers—some of whom Miller himself called outstanding—now face a very delicate situation. The city should not be in the position of losing qualified policemen, but we would not be surprised to now see this happen, since the chief as much as said he considered them disloyal for cooperating in the investigation (which Miller himself often said he "welcomed.")

In short, the city is faced with some very pragmatical questions regarding the future course and administration of the police department, apart from Friday's 7-1 vote. We hope these questions will be faced squarely and solutions found, based on what is best for Sedalia.

Merry-go-round

Leary sees light,
fingers attorney

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Dr. Timothy Leary, the erstwhile high priest of psychedelics who once urged everyone to "turn on, tune in, drop out" on LSD, has had a dramatic change of heart. It was the Watergate scandal, he told a California grand jury, that made him see the light.

"I think if Watergate hadn't happened, I probably wouldn't be here today," he solemnly swore. Then, in his new role as reformer, he accused his former attorney, George Chula, of smuggling drugs to him in prison.

The Los Angeles attorney has denied the charge. He has also pleaded not guilty to an indictment on different charges.

According to Leary's secret, sealed testimony, he insisted to the grand jury that he wasn't angry at his former lawyer. "He is a very pleasant, jolly person," Leary said. "It would be hard for anyone to be angry at him."

But after watching the Watergate drama unfold, Leary felt a compulsion to tell all. "I feel a certain responsibility for ending what I think is a cover-up," he testified.

He spoke of "two-ply lawyers" who "encourage and sponsor activities which are illegal" and then "defend people with whom they have been collaborating and cooperating."

He added, with a ring of righteousness: "I think that we are at a time now in this country when everybody has to tell the truth."

This was strange testimony coming from the former piper of the drug cult, the way-out Harvard psychology professor who preached the heavens of hallucination and wound up in jail on marijuana charges.

In a spectacular jailbreak allegedly engineered by the Weathermen, Leary escaped from a California prison and fled to Algeria. He later flew to Afghanistan with a jet-setter named Joanna Harcourt-Smith. But he was turned over to U.S. authorities who brought him home under guard.

The repentant Leary told the grand jury that he had broken with his past. "I do not intend to take any illegal drugs," he vowed. Then he launched into a colorful tale of how his attorney twice had slipped him small lumps of hashish to eat.

The first time was in the courthouse. He had become irritated with Chula for prating before the TV cameras and has asked the bailiffs to arrange a room for a private lawyer-client conversation.

"After I blew up and spoke forcefully to him, Mr. Chula reached down and pulled up his pant leg and, out of his stocking, he produced a piece of hashish and he handed it to me," related Leary.

"And what did you do with it?" asked Los Angeles District Attorney Art Koelle.

"I took it and I ate it," said Leary.

"All right," said Koelle, "when you say you put it in your mouth and ate it, did you just chew it up and swallow it, is that how you consumed it?"

"Yes," agreed Leary. "I chewed it. It was too large to swallow."

"Do you recall how it tasted, or how hashish tastes?"

"Yes..." Leary paused. "It is like trying to describe the flavor of chocolate; they don't have words for it. But I would say that it is kind of an acid, a dark semibitter resinous, oily taste."

"After consuming it," asked the DA, "did you have any effects from it at all?"

"The effect of the hashish," said Leary, "was to get me over my anger so that I felt euphoric. I felt a feeling of happiness and nothing mattered, and I was no longer angry with Mr. Chula. It is a feeling like a philosophic detachment; it will all be over in a hundred years and no reason to get upset about it."

On the other occasion, Leary was seated across from Chula in the Orange County jail, with a guard watching through a glass window.

"Some time in the first few minutes of the interview," Leary testified, "George Chula handed over a piece of hashish to me... This alarmed me very much because I knew that the guard was sitting in the glass booth observing what was going on. So I kind of froze and I imagine my face must have registered concern.

"And Mr. Chula, who was sitting there, could look over my shoulder and could see the guard booth, said, 'It is all right.' So I put the hashish in my mouth and chewed it and swallowed it."

Timothy Leary, his blonde hair now graying, his Irish smile turning stern, said this was the last time he had touched the vile drug. Reflecting on the past, he said: "It has been kind of a Robin Hood adventure."

ELECTION ODDS: Oddsmaker Jimmy the Greek Snyder, who figures the political odds exclusively for us, offers these election-eve odds on the key races:

✓ California: Democrat Edmund Brown Jr., 5-to-1 favorite over his Republican rival for governor, Houston Flourney.

✓ Colorado: Democrat Gary Hart, favored 3-to-1 to unseat Sen. Peter Dominick.

✓ Kansas: Republican Sen. Robert Dole, a slight, 6-to-5 favorite over his Democratic challenger, Bill Roy.

✓ Kentucky: Democratic Gov. Wendell Ford, favored 2-to-1 to unseat Sen. Marlow Cook.

✓ Missouri: Democratic Sen. Tom Eagleton, an overwhelming 5-to-1 favorite to keep his seat.

✓ Nevada: In another close one, Republican Paul Laxalt is favored 6-to-5 to defeat Harry Reid for the Senate.

✓ New York: Republican Sen. Jacob Javits favored 5-to-2 to beat off Ramsey Clark's challenge for the Senate.

Jimmy the Greek predicts that the Democrats will gain 30 House seats, three Senate seats and five state houses.

Political system is
strainedBy RAY CROMLEY
NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON — In physics, when a system becomes unbalanced through internal or external forces and an eccentricity or pronounced wobble begins to develop, it is usually a sign the system will break down unless remedies are applied.

Our election system is becoming so erratic it now threatens an eventual breakdown in government.

Cromley becoming smaller, convincing many of us none of the men running represent us or our views.

Item. There is evidence small contributions are becoming less important in political campaigns for national office, publicity to the contrary notwithstanding. Incumbents place increasing reliance on donations by special interest groups, further eroding public confidence.

Item. Activist groups labeling themselves public interest but political in everything but name, talk with authority, and wrap themselves self-righteously in the role of judge and jury, but refuse to accept the responsibility of putting up men and women for office. They claim to be above the dirty struggle. But the purity of bystanders is meaningless; we need good men and women as candidates. The irresponsibility of these self-styled "pure" organizations is frequently enormous, as evidenced by a recent press conference organized by one of the more famous. The statements made were, in every respect, the self-serving type familiar to every reporter who has attended political rallies. If the newsmen present had been listening to Defense Secretary James Schlesinger or Secretary of State Henry Kissinger they would have harshly attacked the intriguing mathematics and the clear omissions in the political analysis presented. But because this was a public interest group allegedly free of bias, most reporters present nodded their heads in memorized agreement, questioning nothing that was said.

The growth of these "nonpolitical" "nonpartisan" groups is resulting in a proliferation of hatchet jobs falsely labeled as research in the public interest. Though these organizations have no public ties with any political party, most are obsessed with one ideology or another and are therefore clearly as partisan, in their own way, as Republicans and Democrats. The candidate not subscribing to their particular ideology is a villain and he has little or no defense.

Item. Increasing numbers of men in public life are being attacked with terrible one-sided persistence. No personal details are spared. Virtues and strengths are ignored. Every mole and defect, imagined or real, is described, frequently with unbelievable distortion. Half truths are reported vigorously — with explanations catching up weeks later. This trend, which began well before Watergate, will convince honorable men and women considering whether to run for office that their reputations will end up in shreds once they throw their hats into the ring. It is essential that we be informed of conflicts of interest and of wrongdoing by candidates and office holders but based on the stories now circulating about candidates, we seem to be not after truth, but smear.

In some respects the scenario is similar to that of the French revolution in its later stages of political cannibalism.

Believes ordaining of women 'right'

DURHAM, N.H. (AP) — Retired Episcopal bishop Edward Welles, who ordained 11 women priests in Philadelphia last July, said Sunday what happens to him as a result of his action is not important.

The Rt. Rev. Welles, who is the retired Bishop of the Diocese of West Missouri, delivered a sermon at St. George's Church in Durham Sunday.

He said the Episcopal Church hierarchy is now taking steps toward holding an ecclesiastical trial for the three bishops who ordained the women, with a board of inquiry investigating their actions.

Bishop Welles said, however, "If there is one single thing that I have done in the ministry that I know in my heart and soul and mind is right, it is the ordaining of those women."

"What happens to me as a result is unimportant. What is significant is the absolutely unshakable conviction that the action we took on July 29 was right," he said.

The Rt. Rev. Welles said he felt "desolate" during the first few days after the controversial ordination because he anticipated strong criticism from his friends. But, he said, he has been encouraged by the reaction to his decision.

Commenting on the ordination of the women, the Bishop said, "We have too long expected them to make the coffee and wash the dishes but not allowed them the privilege of ordained priesthood."

The 11 women ordained last July were the first women in the history of the Episcopal Church to enter the priesthood and the action has sparked serious debate within the church over and sex discrimination and church law.

Traffic accidents claim 11

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 11 people died in Missouri traffic accidents over the weekend.

Killed Sunday: Stanford R. Gilgus, 47, Kansas City, when his car collided with a second vehicle on a Kansas City street and Mrs. Viola D. Beattie, 53, King City, when a car driven by her husband swerved to miss some cattle on a highway west of Union Star, Mo. and struck an embankment.

Killed Saturday: Delores Craig, 35, DeSoto, Mo., when her car skidded off rain-slick Route V in Jefferson County and struck a tree; Patricia Jean McMullen, 16, Rock Port, Mo., when two cars sideswiped on U.S. 136 at the east edge of Phelps City, Mo.; Mrs. Carolyn Wood, 72, Excelsior Springs, when she was struck by a car at an Excelsior Springs intersection; Lila Pearl Bridgeforth, 59, Belton, Mo., when the car in which she was riding ran off a rural Jackson County road and Larry White, 24, Stark City, Mo., when his car was forced off U.S. 71 south of Diamond, Mo. by another vehicle.

Killed Friday night: Duane Roland White, 42, Granby, Mo., when his car left a Newton County road about three miles south of Granby; Kenneth Wheeler, 17, Briar, Mo., in a one-car accident on a county road near Briar, in southeast Missouri; Jimmy Pace, 27, Moberly, Mo., when his car overturned on Missouri 179 at Jamestown and Dennis Everett Galup, Macon, Mo., in a head-on collision on U.S. 63 between Moberly and Columbia.

Tax hike, bond issue facing St. Louis voters

ST. LOUIS (AP)—While voters across Missouri will cast ballots on statewide and local candidates and issues, St. Louis residents will decide on two issues—a school tax increase and a $109 million bond issue.

City officials and the Board of Education have urged passage of both measures, contending that their failure will jeopardize the economic and social future of St. Louis.

The 66-cent tax increase would boost the operating school tax rate to $3.35 per $100 assessed valuation. A resident whose home has a market value of $15,000 would pay $33 more a year.

The school board has warned that if the tax increase fails, kindergarten and inter-scholastic athletic programs will be curtailed and 325 teachers will be dismissed. Missouri Commissioner of Education Arthur Mallory has also warned that if the measure is defeated, as it was earlier this year, St. Louis public schools will lose their triple-A rating.

The tax levy for schools has not been increased since 1969.

The bond issue proposal will be put before the voters in the form of 10 propositions to finance improvements in streets, bridges, hospitals and parks, and to purchase new fire-fighting equipment.

A two-thirds vote of approval is required to pass each proposition.

Offshore oil leasing goal is being changed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration has quietly started backing off from former President Richard M. Nixon's orders to lease 10 million offshore acres a year for oil and gas development, starting in 1975.

Last January, Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton talked of leasing "10 million acres a year for a couple of years."

Last Friday, in an exclusive interview, Morton said that goal spurred preparations for increased leasing, but "I'm not aiming today at 10 million acres. I'm aiming to find out where the oil is, and where it is not."

Deputy undersecretary Jared G. Carter also declined in a recent interview to stand by the 10-million acre goal.

Their caution contrasts sharply with Nixon's unmiskable command, expressed in an energy message to Congress last Jan. 23:

"Today I am directing the Secretary of the Interior to increase the acreage leased on the Outer Continental Shelf to 10 million acres beginning in 1975, more than tripling what had originally been planned."

One thing that happened to change bold the determination to sudden caution was the publication of a report by the National Petroleum Council, an industry-government advisory group.

That report said there would not be enough drilling rigs, tubular steel, or skilled manpower to explore and develop five million acres a year, let alone 10.

Asked if there are enough drilling rigs for 10 million new offshore acres in 1975, Carter said, "I don't think it's possible now to say with certainty that rigs will be available or not available."

Morton gets one off

New York Giants' signal-caller Craig Morton gets enough protection and time to get off this pass in the third quarter to runningback Ron Johnson. The pass dropped incomplete, thanks to pressure applied by Kansas City Chiefs' defensive lineman Buck Buchanan (behind Morton) and John Matuszak (79). Morton, recently traded to the Giants by the Dallas Cowboys, led New York to a 33-27 victory Sunday in Arrowhead Stadium.

Giants 33, Chiefs 27

Chiefs' last-ditch effort falls short against N.Y.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Quarterback Craig Morton has endeared himself to the New York Giants in two short weeks.

The reason is obvious: Morton, acquired from the Dallas Cowboys, is 1-1 with the Giants, who have won only two of eight National Football League games. He notched his first victory as a Giant Sunday, passing and masterminding his new team to a 33-27 triumph over the Kansas City Chiefs.

Asked if the Giants are showing confidence in him, Morton replied:

"Yes, but they're showing confidence in themselves, too. They know I'll stay back there and take my lumps. That's part of the job."

Morton doesn't think the Giants' offensive line is as inadequate as most people think.

"I can't say anything bad about those guys on our line," Morton said. "They put 33 points on the board. I took more punishment in Dallas because I wasn't playing."

Morton completed 17 of 33 passes for 256 yards against the chiefs and had no interceptions. He threw twice for touchdowns, a seven-yarder to Walker Gillette that got the Giants even in the first quarter and a daring, surprising 51-yard gem to Joe Dawkins that proved to be the clincher in the fourth period.

Still, it took a savage tackle by safety Chuck Crist inside the one-yard line on the game's last play to put the Giants' second victory of the season in the record books and leave the Chiefs 3-5.

Larry Brunson caught a 15-yard pass from Len Dawson, who guided the Chiefs 80 yards in the final minute, 23 seconds, as the clock clicked off the fading seconds.

Crist hauled Brunson down inches short of the goal and then lay there looking up at the overcast skies with rain pelting his face.

"I looked up at the clock," Crist said. "It showed five seconds left, and Kansas City was out of time outs. I wasn't in any hurry to get up."

It was third and one for a first down when Morton lofted the bomb to Dawkins, and the Giants didn't want to give up the football. Dawkins, all alone in the 40-degree atmosphere, snared it on the Chiefs' 26 and could have almost walked the rest of the way.

"The Chiefs expected a run," said Dawkins. "It was a perfect pass right in my hands, and I caught them flat-footed."

Ron Johnson scored twice for the Giants on one-yard runs, the first boosting New York into a lead it never relinquished.

Dawson, the 39-year-old quarterback who took over for Mike Livingston in the second quarter, had quite a day in defeat. He hit Morris Stroud with an eight-yard pass for one touchdown and Brunson with a 23-yarder for another. He connected on 25 of 33 for 238 yards.

Hank Stram, the Chiefs coach, made no mention of the five seconds which elapsed while Crist was letting the clock run out but criticized the officials for permitting "an overabundance of time to allow people to get back across the line of scrimmage. It's a hell of a way to lose a game."

Dawkins said he thinks the Giants "have turned the corner. We can't celebrate yet but it sure helps to have a guy like Morton around."

The Cardinals meet Minnesota in the Monday night television game Nov. 11.

St. Louis Quarterback Jim Hart nailed tight end Jackie

Smith with a touchdown pass for a 7-0 lead but Dallas tied it just before halftime on Robert Newhouse's two-yard run.

Hart connected with Mel Gray on a 10-yard touchdown pass to push St. Louis ahead 14-7 in the third period, but Dallas rallied again to tie it 14-14 on Hill's two-yard gallop.

Then Cowboy quarterback Roger Staubach whipped Dallas 71 yards to get position for Herrera's pressure field goal—only the second one he has made with the club.

Herrera said "Sure, I was nervous... You get nervous on every kick... Now, the fact that it's the last play of the game—that really makes you nervous."

The victory upped Dallas' record to 4-4 and kept the Cowboys, who have been in a record eight consecutive NFL playoffs, at least in the running for a wild card spot.

Lantry refused to concede the division race to St. Louis saying, "The Cards have a tough one coming up against Minnesota and they could start feeling the pressure. If they should lose, they will have to start watching us and Washington. One or two losses and it's a new ball game."

St. Louis Blues stopped by Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Those who live by last-minute heroics also eventually die by them. At least that's what the only remaining unbeaten team in the National Football League learned Sunday.

St. Louis' thrill-a-minute Cardinals, who had strung seven consecutive victories including five in the final minute, fell by a similar sword.

Dallas' Efran Herrera, a free agent from UCLA the Cowboys signed only a month ago, chipped true a 20-yard field goal with four seconds left to hand Dallas a 17-14 victory.

"It's nice to win one like that after losing on field goals," sighed Cowboy Coach Tom Landry, whose team had lost three games on last-second field goals. In fact, the Cardinals shaved Dallas 31-28 three weeks ago on a 31-yard field goal by Jim Bakken with 62 seconds left.

St. Louis at 7-1 is still two games ahead of Washington in the National Conference Eastern Division, but the Cardinals dropped more than just the ball game.

They lost stellar running back Terry Metcalf in the first half to a strained and bruised knee. The St. Louis offense wasn't the same without the slippery Metcalf in the game.

"When we lost Metcalf, it was like Dallas losing Calvin Hill and he is the Calvin Hill of our offense," said Cardinal Coach Don Coryell.

Metcalf said in the dressing room after the game "I doubt if I will be able to play next week."

St. Louis Blues hire Garry Young

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Blues have gone outside their immediate family and hired Garry Young to guide their hockey fortunes.

Young, once a rising star in the Boston Bruins executive constellation, was hired for the National Hockey League club's post Saturday night, succeeding Lou Angotti, who resigned.

"When I left California I thought I might be through," admitted Young, 42, who two years ago was fired by that team's owner, Charles O. Finley.

"But I couldn't be happier to be back," Young added. "I know the Blues are a good organization, and I feel we can be a winner."

Young's task will be to reverse fortunes for St. Louis, which was reeling with a 2-5-2 record when Angotti stepped down last Wednesday.

Vice president Lynn Patrick, the onetime expansion club's first coach, filled in on an interim basis and was behind the bench during a 9-0 victory over the Atlanta Flames Saturday night.

"From where I sat it looked like Mr. Patrick was doing all right," observed the youthful appearing Young.

"I know he had the players skating, and I don't intend to change that. This team has good, young talent and I know it wants to win."

The hiring of Young brought to an end a practice by the Blues of hiring players from within their own ranks to coach.

Following the 1971 departure of Scotty Bowman, a succession of five selections had included ex-defensemen Al Arbour and Jean-Guy Talbot and former forwards Bill McCreary and Angotti.

Young, a former Bruins chief scout and longtime coach in Canadian junior hockey, became California's general manager in 1971.

He added coaching duties to that task at the beginning of the 1972-73 season but was fired after 12 games in a dispute with Finley over player salaries.

Since that time he has worked with the Seals during an NHL takeover of the team and more recently with a representative of junior hockey players.

"Sid Solomon III called me Thursday from Los Angeles and asked me if I'd be interested in this job," Young said.

"I met him that night in L.A., we talked and then I flew in here Friday night. I'm truly grateful for the opportunity I've been given."

Recreation cage action set back

Tuesday's elections and this week's state teachers meeting have forced postponement of the opening week of play in the Sedalia Recreation Department's men's basketball league.

Play was scheduled to get underway Tuesday. The opening night of action is now set for Nov. 12.

A schedule of the first week's games may be obtained by contacting the recreation department at 826-4930.

Jabbar's cast to be removed

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Milwaukee Bucks, who has been sidelined since Oct. 5 with a broken hand, is expected to have the cast removed Tuesday.

George Korkos, the National Basketball Association team's medical advisor, said Sunday night in announcing the move that the 7-foot-2 center, who was the league's 1973 most valuable player, which seemingly have control of division races with six weeks left in the season.

"What we've done in the past has nothing to do with this game," said Rams Coach Chuck Knox, but 49ers' fans are convinced their team is jinxed in the series.

This will be the 50th Rams-49ers regular season meeting, and the Rams lead 30-17-2. Even while winning division titles three straight seasons (1970-72), the 49ers managed just one victory over the Rams.

Los Angeles, the National Football Conference West leader by 2½ games over New Orleans, takes a 5-2 record into the nationally televised game. One of its victories was a 37-14 decision two weeks ago over the 49ers, 2-5.

Valley, Friends inch closer to bowl game

By The Associated Press

The Mineral Water Bowl, pitting the Heart of America Conference champion against the Kansas Conference titlist, seems likely to feature Missouri Valley and Friends University this year.

Missouri Valley defeated upset-minded William Jewell Saturday, 14-6, and upped its HOA mark to 4-0-1 while Friends blanked McPherson, 19-0, to stand 6-0 in the KCAC.

Jewell wasted several good scoring opportunities and had the ball on Missouri Valley's one-yard line as time ran out.

Central Methodist, with a 4-11 HOA mark, blasted Graceland of Iowa, 43-6, getting 25-point production from Bill Lankford. Lankford ran one kickoff back 93 yards for a touchdown, took a pass for another on a 79-yard scoring play and added a third with a five-yard run. The do-everything athlete also kicked four extra points and a 22-yard field goal.

In other HOA action, Baker swamped Tarkio, 33-0. Baker is now 1-3 in the conference and 34 over-all while Tarkio is 1-2-1 and 1-6-1.

Missouri-Rolla remained a half-step ahead of Northwest Missouri in the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association race by nipping Lincoln, 14-13. Rolla's victory left it with a conference mark of 3-0-1 and over-all 5-2-1, while Lincoln is winless in three conference contests and 3-5 over-all.

Carlton Hightower scored on a three-yard run with five seconds remaining as Northwest edged Southeast Missouri, 28-27.

Northwest is now 6-2 overall and 3-1 in the conference, while Southeast is 4-4 and 1-2.

Northeast Missouri State kept Central Missouri winless in the MIAA by winning their game, 13-6, mostly on the strength of 43- and 36-yard field goals by Kent Penson. Northeast is 2-1 in league play and 4-4 over-all while Central Missouri is 0-3-1 and 2-5-1.

In action among independent Missouri schools this weekend, Culver-Stockton shut out Peru, Neb., 17-0. Missouri Southern bowed to Washburn, 35-7. Washington University of St. Louis lost to Colorado College, 23-14. Benedictine whipped Tabor, 13-0, and Missouri Western edged Kearney, Neb., State, 9-7.

Missouri gets its shot at Oklahoma

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Missouri tries Saturday to stop Oklahoma in Big Eight Conference football.

If the Tigers, armed with a great runner in Tony Galbreath and a stout defense, fail, it appears the second-ranked Sooners won't have much trouble protecting their spotless record until at least Nov. 23 when they run into ninth-ranked Nebraska.

Missouri, a team noted for surprises, must battle Coach Barry Switzer's awesome charges on Sooner soil, and all of the Tigers' three losses this season have been away from home.

Both teams came away with victories last Saturday. Oklahoma, 3-0 in the conference, downed troublesome Iowa State 28-10. Missouri, 3-1, thrashed Kansas State 52-15,

Oklahoma	3	0	0	7	0	0
Missouri	3	1	0	5	3	0
Nebraska	3	1	0	6	2	0
Oklahoma State	2	1	0	4	3	0
Iowa State	2	2	0	4	4	0
Colorado	1	3	0	3	5	0
Kansas	1	3	0	4	4	0
Kansas St.	0	4	0	3	5	0

winning this one on the road.

The other big game Saturday sends Nebraska, 3-1, to Iowa State, 2-2. The highly-regarded Huskers romped over Colorado 31-15 last weekend. The test with the Cyclones could be a tough one for Nebraska.

Oklahoma State, 2-1, invades downtrodden Kansas State, 0-4, and Kansas, 1-3 journeys to Colorado, 1-3. The Cowboys should have little difficulty at K-State. They remained in the thick of championship contention last week by whipping Kansas 24-13 despite a Big Eight record 15 fumbles in a game played in a driving rain.

Oklahoma, unbeaten and untied, scored three third-quarter touchdowns, two within a span of 25 seconds, to beat down the fired-up Cyclones, who held the Sooners far below their game average on offense and combed the Sooner defense for 335 yards.

Joe Washington, the Sooners' elusive runner, gained 86 yards on 14 carries and made one touchdown on a 30-yard pass from Steve Davis, who also connected for six points on a 33-yard pitch to Tinker Owens. Iowa State didn't score until the fourth period when Oklahoma fumbles set up all 10 points in the final minute, 39 seconds.

Missouri exploded for four touchdowns in the fourth quarter against the Wildcats. Galbreath, who chipped in with 194 yards on 32 rushes, tossed a 20-yard pass from his halfback slot to Mark Miller and scored once on a seven-yard romp. Steve Grogan, K-State's fine quarterback, made both of his team's TDs, one on a 22-yard pass from flanker John Tuttle and the other on a one-yard sneak.

Dave Humm's pinpoint passing, blended with clutch running by freshman Aark Anthony, highlighted the Huskers' verdict over the Buffs. Humm, who completed the first seven passes he threw, hit Larry Mushinski with a five-yard touchdown pass and Don Westbrook with a 16-yarder. Anthony picked up 157 yards.

par 255 Sunday at Lake Buena Vista, Fla. Each picked up a $25,000 check for the victory.

Green, McLendon grab Walt Disney golf title

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP)—Hubert Green, winner of four titles and more than $207,000 this season, ranks as one of pro golf's outstanding young players.

He ticked off his schedule for the rest of the year: a Monday fight to Australia for a tournament, then to New Zealand, with maybe a stop in Hong Kong. Then to Japan for two more tournaments.

Mac McLendon, Green's partner in their successful assault on the $250,000 National Team Championship, had just broken out of a dismal, four-year slump and had a happier, much less complicated schedule for the rest of the season.

"I'm gonna go home and drink a little beer," McLendon said.

The old friends from Birmingham, Ala., combined for a final round 64 Sunday and a one-stroke triumph in the unique event in which scoring is based on the team's better ball on each hole. They finished with a 255 total, a whopping 33 strokes under par on the 7,162-yard Magnolia course within sight of the towers and turrets of Walt Disney World.

Incredible Sam Snead, whose legendary career spans four decades and stretches back to the dark Depression days of the 1930s, and nephew J.C. Snead tied for second with Bert Yancey and Ed Sneed at 256.

Sam and J.C. had a final round 64 while Yancey and Sneed, the third-round leaders, had to birdie the final hole for a 67.

Hayes hits 200

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Woody Hayes achieved his 200th college football coaching victory and junior tailback Archie Griffin became the first major college football player to rush for 100 or more yards in 18 straight games when top-ranked Ohio State defeated Illinois 49-7 in a Big Ten game.

End play gives instant relief

South should find a sure way to make his game in rubber bridge.

Oswald: "It isn't too difficult. South just develops an early end play against West. All he has to do is cash enough diamonds to exhaust West's holding in that suit and then throw West in with a club."

Jim: "West will be able to cash three more club tricks to give him a total of four, but then he will have to lead one of the major suits. Whichever one he leads will give South his ninth trick, game, rubber and a satisfied feeling."

CARD Sense

The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1♦	Pass	2♣
Pass	3 N.T.	Pass	3♦
Pass	3 N.T.	Pass	3♦

Opening lead - K♣

Both vulnerable

West North East South

Pass 1♦ Pass 1 N.T.

Pass 3 N.T. Pass Pass

Pass

Opening lead - K♣

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "South looks over dummy and counts eight top winners. The potential for a ninth trick is right there in each major suit and maybe a second club trick will develop. In any event, South lets West hold the first trick. West continues with the queen. East discards and since there is no point ducking again South wins the trick."

Jim: "South can run off five diamond tricks and decide what to do about the major suits next. That might be good tactics in duplicate bridge where overtricks are so important, but an alert

Suddenly husband becomes impotent

Dear Dr. Lamb — My husband is 56 and appears to be in good health. He is active physically and likes to hunt and fish. He is 5-foot-11 and weighs 175 pounds.

We have always had a good marriage and have two daughters and one son, all grown and away from home. Now all at once he isn't able to have sex anymore. He tries but nothing happens, no response at all. What could be the problem? Do you suppose this means he has been having an affair with another woman? Or, does it mean he doesn't really care for me anymore? He is still loving and tries to make it up to me in other ways, but our sex life is non-existent.

I've tried to get him to see a doctor, but he says he feels fine and doesn't want to. What do you think?

Dear Reader — Impotence is a symptom not a diagnosis. Of course, he should see a doctor and find out what the symptom means.

Many men are afraid to see a doctor about any problems related to sexual function. They seem to think this is too great a shame to share with someone else. So they suffer, often needlessly, in silence. So do their wives, many voicing or thinking the thoughts you express.

Impotence is often psychological. It may be related to factors the person is totally unaware of. It often requires professional help to solve these problems. Sometimes the whole thing is related to self-confidence. A failure, even after an evening of too many cocktails, will be overemphasized and fear of failure takes over. When the man's confidence is restored, sometimes even with a useless medicine he has faith in, his capacity may return as if by magic.

In other instances impotence is an indication of illness. It can be a sign of unrecognized diabetes. In these problems the diabetes affects the nerves to the sexual organs and the normal mechanisms no longer work. Early control of diabetes probably helps to prevent this complication.

There are now techniques, some experimental and others fairly well accepted, where selected patients can have a flexible splint implanted which helps a great deal for impotence from nerve involvement in diabetes or after surgery. They have no place in treatment of impotence from psychological causes.

Impotence can be a symptom of circulation problems to the pelvic area. A careful examination of the circulation may demonstrate the cause. Some types of surgery in selected patients will relieve the problems.

A small number of problems are related to decreased output of male hormone. This usually involves a somewhat older man. Even so, about half of men 75 years or older are still potent, and there are medical records of men well over 100 who have remained completely potent in all respects.

Encourage your husband to see a doctor. He is not at all unusual, and he needs to find out what the problem is and get the proper help. (NEA)

By H. PETER METZGER

BOULDER, Colo. — A Middle Eastern government recruiting mercenaries in Colorado?

That's what a recent ad seemed to say in the Shotgun News, a Hastings, Neb., gun traders' publication that circulates nationwide.

But a closer look revealed that Phoenix Associates of Arvada, which placed the ad, was offering only a $5 "information packet" by mail to prospective freelance soldiers who might want work in sunny Oman.

And further checking disclosed that Phoenix Associates was just another name for soldier of fortune Capt. Robert K. Brown of Boulder.

Back in the state between wars, Brown, 41, said he placed the ad as "a method of picking up some bread to defray the expenses of my visit with American mercenaries in Rhodesia last spring."

The information packet Brown is peddling contains all you need to know about applying for service (which is illegal, by the way) in the army of the sultan of Oman, Qaboos bin Said.

The pay doesn't seem all that bad. A captain gets $1,000 a month, tax free, plus liberal leave and ration allowances and all the amenities of military life.

In Oman, a Kansas-sized country on the Arabian Peninsula, the amenities include heat to 130 degrees, as much as four inches of rainfall in a good year, three miles of paved road between the two major cities (combined population 21,000) and a chance to fight Communists.

Oman's department of defense, which is run by British-trained officers, says in a recruiting summary that the Sultan's Armed Forces (SAF) have been fighting the Communist-backed Popular Front for the Liberation of Oman and the Arabian Gulf for the last nine years.

Some would-be adventurers who wrote for Brown's information packet were skeptical of serving in Oman.

"Actually," a man in Middle Village, N.Y., wrote, "In view of the hostile environment and arid climate, coupled with the fact that there aren't any women or bars, gambling casinos or any other place to go, a salary of $1,000 per month is pretty poor pay."

"Do you have any other employment opportunities available — something a little more lucrative, possibly in the Dark Continent or Malaysia?"

Most of Brown's customers, though, seem ready and willing to sacrifice comfort for excitement. Brown said many are former or present military men, and "Once you've been exposed to adventure, it's very difficult to fit back into humdrum civilian life. And it does offer an opportunity to go to war when the U.S. government is not officially involved in one."

One man who wrote for Brown's packet and who didn't mind his name being made public was Anthony R. Santoro, vice president of Briarcliff College in Briarcliff Manor, N.Y. He agreed with Brown on what motivates men to become mercenaries.

"This is my area of history, and historically the kings of Europe got rid of people who were out of work and of the unruly elements in society by forming mercenary units, like those in the Crusades," Santoro said.

"I would think that the people who go now are people who don't find jobs in society that interest them. They may have been doing military jobs for five years and simply don't want to unwind from it."

Why does a country like Oman want mercenaries in the first place? Santoro believes it's because they're basically apolitical — mercenaries work for whoever pays the best and don't take ideological sides in a country's internal politics.

Brown thinks a foreign officer corps is particularly desirable "because it precludes natives from rising through the ranks and establishing a power base which might threaten the sultan."

Qaboos bin Said knows all about that kind of thing. With the help of the armed forces and other members of the royal family, he seized power in a 1970 coup against his father, Said bin Taimur.

Brown needs his periodic shot of excitement himself. The holder of a master's degree in political science from the University of Colorado, he has been involved in "peripheral revolutionary activities," as he calls them, since 1958, when he formed a pro-Castro group on campus.

Two years later, after a brief flirtation with the 26th of July Movement in Havana, he'd had enough.

"When it became apparent that Castro was turning to the left, I began assisting Cuban counter-revolutionaries by establishing training camps in Florida," Brown said. "Then I was involved as an 'observer' in the attempt to invade Haiti to overthrow Papa Doc (Duvalier) in 1966."

Later came 14 months in Vietnam with Army intelligence and as a captain in a Special Forces unit.

Brown thinks a resurgence of the mercenary trade is just around the corner.

"Opportunities for American mercenaries should be picking up dramatically within the next six months — and the most promising area is Africa," he said.

He said American freelancers had been effectively excluded from the Congo and other small African wars in the past because of CIA influence.

"As far as our government was concerned, if there was any adventuring to be done, it would be done by the CIA alone," he said.

But he believes that recent congressional criticism now will cause the CIA to lie low, and the market for American mercenaries will improve. Besides Rhodesia, which already has some Americans, Brown is betting on Mozambique and Angola.

"Thanks to the war in Vietnam, the largest number of unemployed, combat-trained soldiers in the world is in the United States today," Brown said. "That's where I foresee most of the new mercenaries coming from." (NEA)

NOTICE

For Those Who Will Use Logic and Reason:

It took 184 years for the Congress to reach a $100 Billion budget in 1962, by 1971 they reached a $200 Billion budget, just 9 years to double what it took 184 years before to do.

Now fiscal 1975 - less than 4 years later we are at a $300 billion dollar budget.

Let us reason with the following facts —

Fact 1. What has been the majority party in the House and Senate in 38 Out of the last 42 years? And consecutively the last 20 years?

Fact 2. That every dollar spent or appropriated has had to come thru their legislative bodies?

Fact 3. That Senator Eagleton and Rep. Randall have been members of this majority party every day that they have been in office.

Then is it not logical that it is this irresponsible spending of this majority party that has brought us inflation and to the brink of bankruptcy — using your reason and power and your logic.

Do you want a veto proof congress that would have even more irresponsible power to spend us into bankruptcy & inflation?

Will you help to make a change in the direction of our government and vote for men that will support our constitution?

Finances big hurdle for BPS

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Public Broadcasting Service's new national program cooperative, begun this year, has gotten the green light for the 1975-76 season. But a big hurdle remains.

And PBS chief Hartford Gunn says that is to persuade the Corporation for Public Broadcasting and the Ford Foundation to increase, not decrease, the financial support they gave the system for 1974-75.

The cooperative, created amid dwindling foundation support for public TV, aims at stimulating great local financial help for public TV as well as giving stations more direct say in choosing national programs.

Under the system, the stations are asked to pay a fair-share percentage of some national programming they once got free from PBS, helping to "buy" shows offered in a PBS program catalogue.

To get it started this season, CPB, which administers federal funds earmarked for public broadcasting, put up $4.5 million. The Ford Foundation put up $5 million and stations raised $4 million, Gunn said. The $13.5 million total paid for 40 per cent of the cost of this season's national public TV programs, he added.

PBS' executive committee, in renewing the program cooperative for another season, said it should be financed at a level of from $19 million to $23 million. Gunn is aiming for a $21 million level.

"Our hope is that the stations would put up $7 million and CPB and the Ford Foundation $7 million each," he said. "It's a reasonable figure and the program choices the stations could make would be considerably greater than they were under this year's funding."

He said that by this he meant that financially pressed stations this year tended to buy low-cost series lasting weeks rather than expensive programs — such as documentaries — of only one or several segments.

What sort of financial commitment has CPB and the Ford Foundation made to the cooperative for next season?

"Well, the corporation has said it could put up $3.7 million," Gunn said.

He said the Ford Foundation, which is gradually phasing out its long-time support of public broadcasting, "has not said what it'd put up, but it did indicate earlier it'd match what CPB puts up."

TWA officer died Sunday at lake

KANSAS CITY (AP) Robert E. Whitmer, 67, a former director of the J.C. Nichols Company and an officer for Trans World Airlines, died Sunday at a resort at the Lake of the Ozarks.

He was born in Wichita and had lived in Kansas City about 40 years. He attended Friends University.

In 1929 he went to work for Trans World Airlines and assisted in the research and installation of its first two-way voice communications system and reservation system. He later became the airline's first system sales manager.

In 1949 he went to work for the J.C. Nichols Company and a year later was appointed sales manager. In 1951 he was appointed the company's director of public relations and advertising, and was elected to its board in 1965. He was with the company 22 years until retiring in January of 1972.

The native dishes most frequently eaten by tourists in Jamaica include rice and peas. This is a tasty concoction with no peas at all, but kidney beans, white rice, coconut milk, scallions and coconut oil.

Few blacks expected to win elections

WASHINGTON (AP) — Black candidates are seeking office in record numbers this year, but few are expected to win new seats in Congress. The most significant victories are likely to be on the state level.

For the first time ever, blacks may be elected lieutenant governor, in California and Colorado.

But only one black, a heavy underdog, has major party backing for a Senate seat, and any black gains in the House of Representatives are expected to be small.

In Colorado, George L. Brown, after 20 years as a state senator, seeks the No. 2 state office on a Democratic ticket headed by Richard Lamm. Polls give them a slight lead over the Republican team of Gov. John Vanderhoof and acting Lt. Gov. Ted Strickland.

The race issue has not been raised openly in the campaign, but Brown says, "Most Colorado citizens have racism to a lesser degree."

Brown, who is also director of the Metropolitan Denver Urban Coalition, is stressing his experience.

In California, the governor and lieutenant governor do not run as a ticket, but State Sen. Mervyn Dymally, a native of Trinidad, expects help from the expected victory of Democratic gubernatorial candidate Edmund G. "Jerry" Brown Jr.

Dymally, who represents a low-income section of Los Angeles in the state legislature, was chairman of the Democratic caucus before he quit to run for California's second-highest state office.

His opponent is conservative Republican John Harmer, recently appointed lieutenant governor by Gov. Ronald Reagan after Ed Reinecke stepped down following a perjury conviction.

Dymally was asked if he thought Harmer was trying to let voters know Dymally is black.

"We appear on TV," Dymally said. "We never try to hide the fact that I am black. We are not troubled by that."

Dymally is generally viewed as a liberal.

Blacks have served as lieutenant governors in South Carolina and Louisiana through appointment during the Reconstruction era. Louisiana's P. B. S. Pinchback was acting governor for 43 days in 1872.

No blacks have a major-party designation in a race for governor. Minor-party black nominees are on the ballots in Nebraska and New York. In Georgia, a black man is conducting a write-in campaign for governor.

Stealing, burglary charges against four are dismissed

Felony charges against four persons for second-degree burglary and stealing were dismissed Wednesday morning by District Judge Hazel Palmer for lack of evidence during a preliminary hearing.

The Sedalia Democrat
Sunday, Aug. 29, 1972

Threatt innocent of Brown murder

Persons taking items out of the apartment window of one building and into the apartment window of the second. The officers said, however, they could not find signs of forceable entry.

After hearing the testimony of the witnesses and arguments of the defense attorneys, Judge Palmer said, "There is no proof here to my satisfaction to show burglary. I must have probable cause and there is nothing here to sustain the charge of stealing."

GET A SONY

If you're looking for a big sound that comes in small packages, come listen to the SONY HP 161 integrated Component Music System and see how well it fits in. It's a music system that's smaller than it sounds.

Radio reception on the HP 161 is superb. The tuner has a SONY FET front end for picking up weak distant stations while preventing distortion to strong local signals. A light signals when a station is broadcasting in stereo. And the solid state, all silicon amplifier driving two SONY 2-way speakers delivers a big live like sound.

It's the same with the phono systems. A BSR three speed turntable with a SONY ceramic cartridge delivers the same big, rich sound just as superbly with records. Operation is automatic or manual with a cueing lever for manual positioning.

It's big sound housed in small, attractive wood grain enclosures. With connections for tape or stepping up to 4 channel sound. All the controls you need and a removable dust cover. All put together for you by SONY. Sometimes you do get more for less. Come in and listen to the HP 161.

Beat the ol' "I-hate-to-get-up-in-the-morning" blues with a Sony Alarmist Clock Radio. Greet each new day with a briefing on what's happening news-wise around the world, around the nation, and around your town. Discover what the weather has in store for you and what traffic conditions you can expect on your daily commute. Choose from a wide variety of Sony Alarmists with features and styles to suit every taste. Put this Sony Alarmist on your nighttable today:

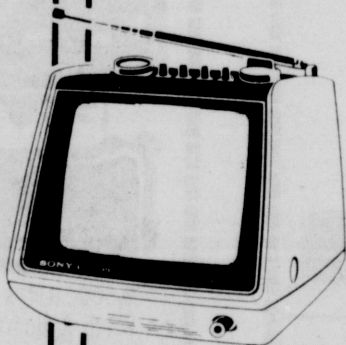

TFM-C650W

- Rich FM and AM
- Illuminated Digimatic clock
- Choice of waking to radio or buzzer
- Snooze Bar allows an extra snooze before alarm goes off a second time
- Sleep Timer turns set off automatically
- Alarm level volume control

SONY TV Precision

Precision—is a way of life with Sony. It is a guiding principle for all Sony people—researchers, designers, engineers, assemblers and inspectors. Precision is the reason why the Sony name on any product is your absolute assurance of quality, dependability and outstanding performance. Here's another example of Sony precision.

- 7-inch screen measured diagonally
- Built-in battery/recharge compartment
- Weighs only 10 lbs. 7 oz. (15 lbs. with optional batteries)
- Operates on AC or DC (with optional accessories)
- Solid state reliability
- Personal earphone
- White or gray cabinet with chrome trim

Sony FM/AM portable comes with a bonus. Extra listening.

Because of its extremely sensitive circuitry, the Sony TFM-7250W can pull in the weakest fringe area signals—free of interference. Giving you programs you never heard before.

And with 1.2 watts (max.) of sound power through a large 4" speaker, you get big, sharp FM/AM reception.

Other features: L.E.D. (Light Emitting Diode) for easy, accurate tuning; switchable AFC for drift-free FM; two-way operation: battery or AC (AC cord built in).

Black cabinet with silver trim is sleek and lightweight.

More sound for your money. From Sony.
